ANNUAL RYEGRASS

Annual ryegrasses are sown for a high quality short-term winter crop, providing multiple grazings in winter and spring. Hence annual ryegrass is generally used for a 6–9 month winter crop prior to sowing a summer crop, or to make the most of a growing season rainfall where late season rain is unreliable. Annual ryegrass exhibits the greatest winter growth potential of all the ryegrass types.

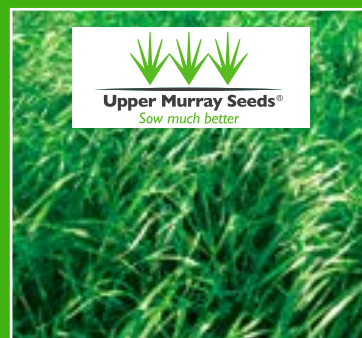

Vortex

- Mid-late flowering • Excellent autumn, winter and early spring growth
- Good quality • Ideal for fast, cool-season feed, silage and hay • Good heat tolerance.

Jivet

- Rapid establishment and strong winter production • Excellent quality silage • Maintained spring quality • Excellent disease resistance • Strong animal performance.

Torpedo

- Very fast to establish for reduced time to first grazing • Late maturing
- Excellent winter growth • Exceptional dry matter production for hay and silage • Performs well into the season.

Zoom

- A fast establishing, high yielding specialist winter feed crop • High pasture quality, for longer into spring (+16 days) • Potential of multiple grazings plus a cut of silage or hay.

ITALIAN RYEGRASS

Italian ryegrass is used as a highly productive short term pasture option in areas with mild summers or where late season rains offer pasture growth into late spring and early summer. It is also well suited to oversowing into run-down pastures and may be spring sown in areas where summer moisture is reliable.

Allure

- High yield • Excellent winter and early spring production • A fast establishing Late maturing • High quality hay and silage • Persist for 2-3 seasons under favourable conditions.

Jagg

- Very high yielding • Late heading, fast establishing • Very persistent • Bounces back from hard grazings well • Very palatable • Ideal short term, high quality feed.

Manta

- Fast established • Good cool season growth • Impressive spring growth and dry matter production • Versatile performer across all Australian temperate ryegrass regions.

Tempo

- Increased overall yield • Very fast establishment • Highly reliable • Grazing, silage, hay – all stock classes • Highly suitable for oversowing.

FERTILISER SERVICES

- Straights • Blends • Trace Elements • Bulk • Field Bins
- Bulka Bags • Spreading • Agronomy • Soil Testing

PERENNIAL RYEGRASS

In the higher rainfall and irrigated regions of southern Australia, perennial ryegrass is the grass of choice for permanent pastures. It is relatively easy and quick to establish and easy to manage, although it struggles under high summer temperatures and needs appropriate management to ensure long term persistence.

Maxsyn

- Ultra-high performance • Heat tolerant • Strong insect protection • Excellent animal safety • Absolute top-performer for forage yield & persistence.

BaseAR37

- Outstanding insect protection • Top performer in the FVI • Bred in Australia from drought surviving plants • Very high tiller density and high dry matter production.

Matrix

- Thoroughly proven high yield performance and persistence • High pasture quality (ME, digestibility) • Very late heading (+23 days) for carrying pasture quality longer into spring.

Munch

- A high yielding • Establishes rapidly • Produces large amounts of dry matter well into summer • One of the best performing grasses • Rapid regrowth • Ideal option in pasture mixes.
